Washington, Nov. 9.—Reports that General Beauregard has been relieved from the command of the rebels on the Potomac seem to be well founded. A letter just received from Richmond states that strong efforts for some days have been made by the people of South Carolina and Georgia to induce General Beauregard to command the fortifications at Bull's Bay or Port Royal, in the event that the fleet should attempt a landing at either of the points.

The latter states that the belief was that the fleet was destined for Beaufort. A pretty large force had been dispatched from the Potomac to defend that point.

The official announcement of the army of the Potomac, General Scott and his assumption of command by General McClellan has been issued.

The headquarters of the army will be established in Washington.

The duplicate returns, orders, and other papers, heretofore sent to the Assistant Adjutant General's office, will be forwarded to the headquarters of the army, which will be continued by the order of the Secretary of War.

By order. L. THOMAS, Adjutant General.

Gen. Halleck has not yet received his orders; the indications are that he will be assigned to command in Missouri.

Scouts discovered to-day that the rebels are in the habit of keeping about a regiment in ambush near Hunter's mills, for the purpose of capturing whatever comes in sight. Probably more than one careless picket, or straggler in advance of our lines, has already fallen their victims.

A private of the 21st Michigan was wounded and captured at Bull Run and returned because of his permanent disability of wounding his right arm. He says that the fortifications on the north side of Richmond, when he left, were more than three-quarters of a mile in length. Our soldiers in the hospital with him were well treated. Those confined in the tobacco house were generally abused.

The Georgia troops at Richmond were greatly disheartened and anxious to return home. A dispatch from Gen. Beauregard, the only one of his reports about his fighting, Floyd, was received at headquarters to-day. It says not a word of the Virginia, thief, or of the engagement or immediate prospect of an engagement with the rebels.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The Treasury Department has suspended the printing of the three year bonds to the 10th August, and directed the plates altered to the 1st of October, five millions having been printed.

The Department this week have been paying with the greatest possible expedition the accounts for the army and navy, those being considered the most urgent and important. Official accounts are all necessarily suspended until that branch shall be completed.

The War Department has received an official telegram from General McClellan, dated Oct. 24th, which generally confirms the newspaper statements.

It says that Captain Bellah, of General McClellan's staff, was killed, and among other particulars, that we fought all the way into the camp of the enemy, and that the guns of the Government were engaged in the action.

The Government has a very authentic information that the rebels are weakening their own forces on the lower Potomac.

(Special to the Post.)

An exchange of prisoners is likely to become accomplished on satisfactory conditions. The Government is now engaged in discussing the question.

Lieutenant Kurtz, who was released from Richmond on parole, in order to urge upon the Government the expediency of making exchanges, expresses great confidence in the success of his mission.

The President has commenced the preparation of his annual message.

The Long Bridge over the Potomac is being reconstructed and will be kept in repair for military uses during the winter.

The Government has decided to hold the position now occupied at Hatteras. Reinforcements will probably be sent at once, including a regiment to replace the Indians who have suffered severely.

The story that the rebels have elected a new battery on the Potomac, twelve miles below Alexandria, is denied by the officers of the Washington navy yard.

Important from Missouri.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—A special to the Times from Cairo says it is impossible for the rebels to hold anything like an accurate record of the killed, wounded and missing in the engagement at Belmont on the 7th.

It is estimated that twenty-five of the Twenty-second Illinois are missing. There are thought to be three hundred and fifty missing of the Seventh Ohio.

Col. Lamm's wound is not dangerous.

Lieutenant Colonel Went was killed; the Major is missing and the Adjutant missing and reported as killed.

In Logan's Regiment thirty-five were killed and forty-seven wounded.

All but forty-four of Col. Fouke's Regiment answered the roll call yesterday afternoon.

The loss of Col. Baker's Regiment not ascertained supposed not to report of the killed, wounded and missing.

In Taylor's Artillery thirty-three were killed and thirty-four wounded.

One hundred and thirty-four prisoners were taken.

All accounts concur in placing the loss of the army much heavier than that of the rebels.

There is no reliable news from Col. Ogilvie's command. It is rumored that he has encountered Jeff. Thompson's forces, killing three hundred and taking fifty.

Belmont has been captured, and the rebels are acknowledged to have lost three hundred and fifty killed, but would not permit Federal officers who went to
